CENTENNIAL

More Than 40,000 Attend Christian Church Convention.

Rev. Harley Jackson returned home at noon Wednesday from attending the international centennial celebration of the Christian church at Pittsburgh. From the reports given by the press the meeting was evidently one of the largest and most enthusiastic religious gatherings ever held. More than 44,000 people who were there to attend the convention registered from different parts of the world.

Rev. Jackson was among the many who visited the home of Alexander Campbell, one of the pioneers of the Christian church and whose youngest grandson, Robert J. Thompson, assistant secretary of the Indianapolis and Louisville Traction Company, resides on west Fourth street in this city. The old home is located at Bethany, W. Va., and there he met Mrs. Decima Barelay, the tenth daughter of Alexander Campbell, who is proud of her illustrious father and takes pains in keeping the old home as near as possible the way her father kept it and the way he left it at the time of his death forty-five years ago. She was also interested in inquiring about the health of her nephew, Mr. Thompson, who seems to be a great favorite of hers, and his family.

An electric railway runs out from Wellsburg, on the Pennsylvania railway, to Bethany, a distance of about nine miles, and every car on the road was pressed into service for the accommodation of the church people who were anxious to see the Campbell home. Brother Jackson got up at 5:30 Monday morning and went out and spent three hours at the home. The buildings are one and a half story and were very respectable for that time. The old building still stands and near it a larger residence which Campbell built later. On the walls of some of the rooms is the same paper which he purchased at Philadelphia and carried there 73 years ago last spring. The paper was put on with glue and it is impossible to remove it without scraping it off. It was very fine for that time and on it are pictures of trees, houses, brooks, woodland and mountain scenes. The pictures are not repeated but only one picture of a kind is found in the same room.

Mr. Jackson was permitted to enter the study of Alexander Campbell, where some three thousand volumes of his books are still arranged in shelves much the way he left them, and he was given the liberty of the room to handle such books as he liked. The room which President Garfield occupied when he was a student there is still known as the Garfield room and contains the bed on which he slept and life size portraits of Garfield and Campbell side by side.

In the yard stands an evergreen tree the sprout of which the Rev. Mr. Campbell brought from Philadelphia at the same time, in the spring of 1836. Mr. Jackson also visited the modest grave of Campbell in the Campbell cemetery only a few hundred yards from the home. The cemetery is a small one and contains only the graves of Campbell and some of his relatives and friends. The father of Senator Oliver, of Pennsylvania, is one of the men buried there. He also visited the old church that Campbell built during his life time and was shown about by the janitor.

At the time Mr. Jackson was there practically every souvenir post card of the Campbell home that could be found in the town had been sold and he had to leave his order to get a reasonably good collection of the scenes. The people were going there in delegations. The California crowd remained in the east and visited the Campbell home Wednesday. Mr. Jackson also visited the home of the Millennium Harbinger, a monthly publication which was started by Campbell and edited by him for some thirty years or longer and which suspended publication at his death. But one man who was present at the convention comes nearer having the complete files of the Harbinger than does Mr. Jackson.

At the communion service held at the convention last Sunday a collection of $16,000 was taken which will be applied to the ministers' relief fund for caring for aged and infirm ministers. A total of more than $100,000 was contributed at the open meetings during the sessions for carrying on the work of the church at home and abroad.

Rev. F. M. Rains, who is well known in this city stood before the convention and in four minutes raised sufficient money to pay for a ship which is to go to the Congo river country on a missionary expedition. A thousand dollars was raised to send Evangelist Warren, of Pittsburgh, on a trip to Palestine as a reward for his untiring efforts during the convention and his labors in planning for its success. A movement was started by the nine ministers from England to have a great international meeting in their country in 1915. The people of Pittsburgh were surprised at the magnitude of the convention but managed to care for all visitors, showing them many courtesies. There were many prominent members of the Christian church present from Indiana.

Columbus Joy Riders.

Whenever they have any sort of disturbance now at Columbus the Columbus papers charge that the disturbers have been at Seymour where two saloons are yet doing business. Any undue hilarity is taken to mean that a "joy ride" has been taken to Seymour. The following paragraph from the Columbus Republican is a sample. "Joe Griner and Ed Percifield had been to Seymour and the former loaned the latter some money with the remark that he now owed him $5.50. Percifield is said to have become offended at his borrowing thus being made public and he and Griner had some words, when Vic Percifield got into the row and swatted Griner with a quart bottle of whiskey, cutting his head severely. Ed Percifield is also said to have taken a poke at Griner with an umbrella. Griner then fled with the Percifield boys in pursuit and some of the police bringing up the rear, but no arrests were made at the time."

Poultry Shipments.

Express companies in this city have commenced to move the Thanksgiving poultry that has reached the city from the surrounding country in Southern Indiana and large numbers of turkeys, geese and chicken are shipped daily to the eastern markets. Poultry dealers throughout the country report a shortage this season in the poultry output of the farms, and in Southern Indiana the supply is said to be even shorter than in most sections of the country. With the present high prices which promise to go higher as Thanksgiving day approaches, the Thanksgiving turkey this season will indeed be a luxury.

Circuit Court.

The following cases have been disposed of since our last report: Wm. M. Collins vs Nancy J. Collins; divorce granted plaintiff. Ray C. Norton, defrauding restaurant keeper; fined $1 and costs. State ex rel. Carrie Marendt vs Jesse D. Ingram, venued to Scott county. Jacob Rider vs James P. Rider, civil action; venued to Scott county. The jury in the case of Seba A. Barnes assignee, of Arthur H. DeGolyer, against William L. Shipman upon a note, found for the plaintiff. The full amount of the note which was $78.50 was allowed.

Dr. George Knapp will be at Brownstown Friday, Oct. 22 and Saturday, Oct. 23. o21wkly

Dismissed.

Tuesday J. F. McCurdy, former city civil engineer, filed an affidavit in circuit court charging Mayor H. R. Kyte with official irregularity. The first paragraph alleged that three fines assessed and collected by the mayor were held longer than the law allowed. The second paragraph alleged that a warrant issued over two years ago for the arrest of a former local saloon keeper or bartender, had been destroyed. But the proceedings thus instituted did not last long in court.

Today the matter was called in circuit court and on motion of Mayor Kyte's attorneys the proceedings were dismissed. McCurdy, who made the affidavit, did not appear in court today.

Warmer Weather.

It is considerably warmer here today than it has been for the past two weeks. Yesterday the thermometer began to rise, and the warmer atmosphere was accompanied by unusually heavy rains. The heavy clouds were still in evidence this morning, and more rain was threatened. Later in the day, however, the sun came out brightly, and the weather is ideal for autumn.

Birds Migrating.

One of the best indications of the approaching winter is the large number of black birds which are going south for the winter months. During the summer the birds take advantage of the large trees in the city, and use them for their roosting places. They can now be seen flying over the city without resting at their usual places.

Fell From Tree.

John Bradbury fell from a tree which he was trimming in front of the library this afternoon about four o'clock and was so badly injured that it was necessary to take him home in a wagon.

C. K. Dippon, a business man from Nashville, Tenn., arrived in this city Wednesday morning looking for a location. He left his wife and family here at the hotel today while he went to Indianapolis to see some relatives. The fact that he has been directed to Seymour as a good location is evidence that our opportunities have been well advertised even as far away as Tennessee.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

The engine on train No. 7 on the B. & O., was changed here today. The disabled engine was left at the yards in this city.

Train No. 4 due here at 9:08 came in a little late and was pulled by a "double header."

New time boards have been placed in the waiting rooms at the B. & O., station.

W. E. Becker, of Terre Haute, superintendent of the Southern Indiana, H. P. Radley, of Terre Haute, general freight agent, and C. V. Link, of Bedford, traveling freight agent were in the city Wednesday calling upon the shippers. Social visits of this character are made by the road officials, who desire to become acquainted with the shippers who can use their road in shipping their goods.

LIGHT RUMOR

Reports That Resolution is to be Withdrawn.

A report has been going the rounds today that while Col. Russell B. Harrison and W. B. Holton were here yesterday they reached the conclusion, after taking legal advice, that the wise thing for them to do was to withdraw their acceptance of the provisions of the resolution adopted at last council meeting on the ground of doubtful legality. The REPUBLICAN has been unable however, to verify this report. No papers have been filed with the clerk today to this end. Mayor Kyte says his action on the resolution will be made public at the council meeting next Monday night. The Mayor had a lawyer look into the matter from a legal standpoint and it is presumed he will follow his advice. Colonel Harrison was here all day yesterday but has returned to his home at Indianapolis. The public is decidedly interested in this lighting question and will anxiously await developments.

Miss Blanch Barick, 637 N. Ewing street, was hostess to eleven young ladies Wednesday evening when a spoon shower was given complimentary to Miss Fay Johnson. The presents for Miss Johnson were hidden in a bank of fern which was artistically constructed in the dining room. The various rooms were decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. During the evening sachet bags were made by the guests and were presented to Miss Johnson. A dainty ice was served in glasses which were tied in pink tulle and fern. Miss Johnson will be married to Mr. Charles Resner later in the fall.

Vogel and Mrs. G. H. Anderson.

Interurban Gossip.

Now that the business for 1909 is well completed why not get together those who are interested in the promotion of the welfare of Seymour and Brownstown and Jackson county in general and formulate plans for going after an electric line which will cross the county from east to west, connecting Seymour, Brownstown and points west. Let these plans be such as will suit the ideas of the farmers and others who are to be interested by the enterprise as far as it is possible to do so. Jackson county is not a difficult territory over which to build railroads and an electric road such as has been frequently proposed in recent years, and extended westward to other important connections, would soon develop a good business. Let everyone along the newly proposed route study the question, not in a dilatory way, but just as he would any other proposition which means money in his pocket and additional comforts for the greater portion of our population. And when the time comes let all work together and something will be accomplished. There is every reason why this road should be built in the near future and we believe that Jackson county push and energy is about ready to assist in promoting such an enterprise.

CANNON SCORES THE INSURGENTS

Speaker Pours Hot Shot Into His Critics.

HE LEAVES IT TO PEOPLE

In Defending His Position in Congress, Speaker Cannon Says It Is Time For the People to Decide the Contest That Has Arisen in Congress—In the Characteristic Cannonian Style of Fervid Oratory Uncle Joe Denounced the Attacks Upon Himself and the Congress.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 20.—Before an audience that jammed the opera house here, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of the national house of representatives poured hot shot into the ranks of the insurgents. Mr. Cannon, standing on tiptoe, with his hands straight up and that famous left forefinger-wigwagging eloquently, ripped into LaFollette and Cummins. He declared that the time had come for the people of the United States to decide whether seven insurgents in the senate who called themselves Republicans and twenty members of the house constituted the Republican party.

Mr. Cannon denounced the charge of a deal with Tammany as a falsehood. He roasted the metropolitan newspapers that assailed partisanship as "unfair falsehood and denunciation." He gave what easily could be construed as Cannon's reason for removing Representative Fowler from the banking and currency committee and which led to the bitter denunciation of Mr. Cannon by Fowler. He told his audience that Mr. Fowler tried to block the will of the majority and that the majority had to put Mr. Fowler to one side.

When Uncle Joe was not rising in all his might and in the characteristic Cannonian style of fervid oratory to denounce the attacks on himself and congress, he launched into satire, fables and biting sarcasm levelled at the insurgents, Mr. Bryan and others who have termed him a "czar."

"My God, can all this be true?" shouted Uncle Joe, with a smile that got the audience, as he finished the indictment against him. Holding back the lapels of his coat, standing straight as a pine needle and throwing his head back, he said with dramatic fervor: "Behold Mr. Cannon, the Beelzebub of congress. Gaze on this noble, manly form—me, Beelzebub—me, the czar!"

Mr. Cannon pulled back the curtain of congress, reviewed his more than a score of years in congress, gave the lie direct to some of his critics, and declared that there had been no time in all the history of congress when a majority could not change the program or depose a speaker. He reviewed Speaker Reed's career and told how the Democrats got control of the congress and of how they then, after denouncing Reed as a tyrant, re-enacted the Reed rules in toto and did it again in the next congress that they controlled.

"And my friend, William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, voted for those same rules," shouted Uncle Joe. "He didn't say anything about the czar business then or for many, many years. He did not mention the czar business in 1896, in 1900 nor in 1904, but he waited until he thought everybody had forgotten about his vote for the czar rules, and then in the Denver platform said that the congress of the United States had ceased to be a deliberative body and was the tool of this Beelzebub, Cannon."

Mr. Cannon then pulled back his coat and invited his thoroughly delighted and enthused audience to gaze on the "manly form of Mr. Beelzebub."

Mr. Taft Finds Relaxation On His Brother's Ranch.

SORRY HE CAN'T STAY LONGER

The President's Only Regret Is That Golden Days on Big Texas Ranch Cannot Be Prolonged—Wildcats, Wild Boars, 'Possums and Bald Eagles Enter into the Incident of the Visit the President is Paying His Wealthy Brother at the Great Gregory Estate.

Gregory, Tex., Oct. 20.—At the end of his first day of ranch life President Taft said: "I wish there was going to be a week or two of this instead of only four days," and all of the Taft special train passengers said "amen." It had been the first real day of rest that Mr. Taft has had since he started on his 13,000-mile jaunt. Arrangements have been completed for the wildcat hunt, but the president has not said yet that he will join in the chase. Just to show that they have wildcats out here, one of the cowboys brought one in. This one was dead. It was about four times the size of an ordinary cat. But with this relic before him the president refrained from committing himself on the hunt. To be a good wildcat hunter you have got to feel your way through the Texas thorn bushes and other brambles at night. The cowboy hunter laid a dead wild boar at the president's feet along with the wildcat. The president will try some of the wild boar meat.

The ghost of that 'possum that the president ate at Atlanta last fall is still pursuing him. This time the people of Arkansas perpetrated the 'possum. It is safe to say that the president has had fifty 'possums given to him since that Atlanta banquet was pulled off, and he has not eaten a single one since. But this Arkansas 'possum was a good 'possum. It was caught in the Presbyterian church there and, strange to say, was coal black. Nobody ever heard of a black church 'possum around here before, and the creature was sent to President Taft as an expert. He promptly let it out on his brother's 100,000-acre ranch.

Then there was a bald-headed eagle incident. C. P. Taft had erected a tall flag-pole with a gilded ball on the top of it, and early in the morning he started out with the intention of putting an American flag on it for the first time. He found a big eagle perched on the gilded ball. Mr. Taft hurried back to the house and called up the president, and the old eagle was kind enough to remain on his perch until the president got a look at him.

This afternoon the president was given a chance to see the Texas cowboys in action. There was a big roundup of cattle on the ranch, and the president rode over on horseback to watch the herding and branding. Tomorrow the president will go to the town of Taft, which is on the Taft ranch, and will speak there.

THE CHILD WITNESS IDENTIFIES RIZZO

Dramatic Testimony of Survivor of Ravine Tragedy.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The six-year-old survivor of the ravine tragedy and the companion of the two children who were slain there on the night of Sept. 12, Fanny Infusino, named Theodore Rizzo in the supreme court as the perpetrator of those murders. Fanny went on the stand just after the examination of her mother, Mrs. Infusino. The child was not sworn because of her age. Her testimony was given as a statement under the section of the code providing for the emergency of witnesses too young to understand the nature of an oath. After reciting how the murderer had attempted to mistreat the Procopio girl and herself, Fannie was asked what she said to him.

She replied: "I said, 'I will tell my father and he'll shoot you. I'll tell a police and he'll have you arrested.' Then he said, 'I'll shoot you fair.' He took out his gun and shot us, first Freddy, then Theresa and then me."

When asked whether she could see the man in the courtroom who did the shooting, Fannie pointed in the direction of Rizzo. "Stand up, Rizzo," commanded District Attorney Willis.

Rizzo stood up, and when asked if he was the man, Fannie replied that he was. Flushed and frightened, Rizzo sank back into his chair.

Then the child told how she had stayed in the ravine all night caring for her mortally wounded baby brother and now and then going to the spot where little Theresa lay cold in death. Fannie fell asleep several times in the thicket, but "little Freddie couldn't sleep because of the bullet hole in his stomach," she explained. The child's testimony and her identification of Rizzo as the murderer was not shaken in the least by the prisoner's counsel.

The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. If troubled with indigestion, revise your diet, let reason and not appetite control and take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will soon be all right again. Another policeman was also struck in the head. A complete list of the injured has not yet been obtained by the police. A Polish couple just married gave a party to friends at a dance hall. It was a select affair and a crowd of village rowdies, angered because they were not invited, tried to break up the party. Police aid was sought and a gang of young toughs threw Kulczyk out of the hall before he could draw his gun. The toughs followed into the street and he shot two as he lay on the ground with his head fractured. Eight arrests were made.

WHY JUDGE!

Candidate Gaynor Says He Didn't Know Where Tammany Hall Was.

New York, Oct. 20.—William J. Gaynor told a crowded ratification meeting at Tammany Hall last night that he had not known before where Tammany Hall was and that he had been obliged to telephone from his house early to find out how to get there. It was a poser for the crowd, but after a little hesitation there was a somewhat timid attempt to take it as an ex-judicial joke. The crowd was flabbergasted again later when the former jurist and candidate for mayor threw their applause back into their faces. He told them that he had been accustomed for sixteen years to address only forums and that their applause was to him only so much consumption of time; still, if it pleased them, he said, he did not especially mind it. He got silence quicker than he ever got it in court.

It was the typical Tammany ratification meeting, only minus some of the enthusiasm which is the usual accompaniment of these meetings.

"And so this is Tammany Hall," said Judge Gaynor, looking about as though gazing for the first time upon paradise—and just slightly glancing upward.

Said the judge, with the same straight face: "It's the first time I was here. Strange as it may seem to you, for you doubtless think yourselves important here in Manhattan, I did not even know where it was."

The judge pursued himself soberly with the statement: "I had to telephone from my house to find out how to get here." The judge continued: "And is it Tammany Hall? Well, if it be, where is the tiger?"

"Maou-ow-ow," came from the gallery, and not a laugh that the speaker had failed to evoke.

Bejeweled Skeleton of Young Woman Found in Long Island Woods.

New York, Oct. 20.—The case of a young woman whose bejeweled skeleton was found in the woods along the Brentwood road is being looked into by the authorities of Suffolk county, Long Island. The discovery of the skeleton was made by children, whose father notified Coroner Savage.

About the throat of the victim hung a necklace of gold, with a heart-shaped locket set with a diamond. A picture had been removed from the locket. There was also a pendant pearl about three-quarters of an inch long hanging from the necklace. On the left wrist was a gold bracelet, with another pearl of similar shape attached to it.

The broadcloth skirt and coat had been partly consumed by the forest fires which swept the woods in May and June. The body had lain in the same spot probably for a year.

A large automobile veil of silk, found a few yards from the spot, bore in embroidered letters the name "Schwartz," leading to a quietly expressed opinion that the dead girl might eventually be identified as the missing fiancée of Gustave Schwartz, now in the Riverhead (L. I.) jail under indictment.

May Smith was the name of the nurse in the Central Islip hospital for the insane to whom Schwartz was reported to be engaged, and who disappeared so mysteriously about a year ago. She was never traced. It was reported that Schwartz had given her jewelry to the value of several hundred dollars.

CANNON SCORES THE INSURGENTS

Sp' a'er Pours Hot Shot Into His Critics.

HE LEAVES IT TO PEOPLE

In Defending His Position in Congress, Speaker Cannon Says It Is Time For the People to Decide the Contest That Has Arisen in Congress—In the Characteristic Cannonese Style of Fervid Oratory Uncle Joe Denounced the Attacks Upon Himself and the Congress.

Elgin, Ill., Oct. 20.—Before an audience that jammed the opera house here, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of the national house of representatives poured hot shot into the ranks of the insurgents. Mr. Cannon, standing on tiptoe, with his hands straight up and that famous left forefinger-wigwagging eloquently, ripped into LaFollette and Cummins. He declared that the time had come for the people of the United States to decide whether seven insurgents in the senate who called themselves Republicans and twenty members of the house constituted the Republican party.

Mr. Cannon denounced the charge of a deal with Tammany as a falsehood. He roasted the metropolitan newspapers that assailed partisanship as "unfair falsehood and denunciation." He gave what easily could be construed as Cannon's reason for removing Representative Fowler from the banking and currency committee and which led to the bitter denunciation of Mr. Cannon by Fowler. He told his audience that Mr. Fowler tried to block the will of the majority and that the majority had to put Mr. Fowler to one side.

When Uncle Joe was not rising in all his might and in the characteristic Cannonese style of fervid oratory to denounce the attacks on himself and congress, he launched into satire, fables and biting sarcasm levelled at the insurgents, Mr. Bryan and others who have termed him a "czar."

"My God, can all this be true?" shouted Uncle Joe, with a smile that got the audience, as he finished the indictment against him. Holding back the lapels of his coat, standing straight as a pine needle and throwing his head back, he said with dramatic fervor: "Behold Mr. Cannon, the Beelzebub of congress. Gaze on this noble, manly form—me, Beelzebub—me, the czar!"

Mr. Cannon pulled back the curtain of congress, reviewed his more than a score of years in congress, gave the lie direct to some of his critics, and declared that there had been no time in all the history of congress when a majority could not change the program or depose a speaker. He reviewed Speaker Reed's career and told how the Democrats got control of the congress and of how they then, after denouncing Reed as a tyrant, re-enacted the Reed rules in toto and did it again in the next congress that they controlled.

"And my friend, William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, voted for those same rules," shouted Uncle Joe. "He didn't say anything about the czar business then or for many, many years. He did not mention the czar business in 1896, in 1900 nor in 1904, but he waited until he thought everybody had forgotten about his vote for the czar rules, and then in the Denver platform said that the congress of the United States had ceased to be a deliberative body and was the tool of this Beelzebub, Cannon."

Mr. Cannon then pulled back his coat and invited his thoroughly delighted and enthused audience to gaze on the "manly form of Mr. Beelzebub."

CHARMING DAYS FOR PRESIDENT

Mr. Taft Finds Relaxation On His Brother's Ranch.

SORRY HE CAN'T STAY LONGER

The President's Only Regret Is That

Golden Days on Big Texas Ranch Cannot Be Prolonged—Wildcats, Wild Boars, 'Possums and Bald Eagles Enter into the Incident of the Visit the President Is Paying His Wealthy Brother at the Great Gregory Estate.

Gregory, Tex., Oct. 20.—At the end of his first day of ranch life President Taft said: "I wish there was going to be a week or two of this instead of only four days," and all of the Taft special train passengers said "amen." It had been the first real day of rest that Mr. Taft had since he started on his 13,000-mile jaunt. Arrangements have been completed for the wildcat hunt, but the president has not said yet that he will join in the chase. Just to show that they have wildcats out here, one of the cowboys brought one in. This one was dead. It was about four times the size of an ordinary cat. But with this relic before him the president refrained from committing himself on the hunt. To be a good wildcat hunter you have got to feel your way through the Texas thorn bushes and other brambles at night. The cowboy hunter laid a dead wild boar at the president's feet along with the wildcat. The president will try some of the wild boar meat.

The ghost of that 'possum that the president ate at Atlanta last fall is still pursuing him. This time the people of Arkansas perpetrated the 'possum. It is safe to say that the president has had fifty 'possums given to him since that Atlanta banquet was pulled off, and he has not eaten a single one since. But this Arkansas 'possum was a good 'possum. It was caught in the Presbyterian church there and, strange to say, was coal black. Nobody ever heard of a black church 'possum around here before, and the creature was sent to President Taft as an expert. He promptly let it out on his brother's 100,000-acre ranch.

Then there was also a bald-headed eagle incident. C. P. Taft had erected a tall flag-pole with a gilded ball on the top of it, and early in the morning he started out with the intention of putting an American flag on it for the first time. He found a big eagle perched on the gilded ball. Mr. Taft hurried back to the house and called up the president, and the old eagle was kind enough to remain on his perch until the president got a look at him.

This afternoon the president was given a chance to see the Texas cowboys in action. There was a big roundup of cattle on the ranch, and the president rode over on horseback to watch the herding and branding. Tomorrow the president will go to the town of Taft, which is on the Taft ranch, and will speak there.

THE CHILD WITNESS IDENTIFIES RIZZO

Dramatic Testimony of Survivor of Ravine Tragedy.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The six-year-old survivor of the ravine tragedy and the companion of the two children who were slain there on the night of Sept. 12, Fanny Infusino, named Theodore Rizzo in the supreme court as the perpetrator of those murders. Fanny went on the stand just after the examination of her mother, Mrs. Infusino. The child was not sworn because of her age. Her testimony was given as a statement under the section of the code providing for the emergency of witnesses too young to understand the nature of an oath. After reciting how the murderer had attempted to mistreat the Procopio girl and herself, Fannie was asked what she said to him.

She replied: "I said, 'I will tell my father and he'll shoot you. I'll tell a police and he'll have you arrested.' Then he said, 'I'll shoot you for fair.' He took out his gun and shot us, first Freddy, then Theresa and then me."

When asked whether she could see the man in the courtroom who did the shooting, Fannie pointed in the direction of Rizzo. "Stand up, Rizzo," commanded District Attorney Willis.

Rizzo stood up, and when asked if he was the man, Fannie replied that he was. Flushed and frightened, Rizzo sank back into his chair.

Then the child told how she had stayed in the ravine all night caring for her mortally wounded baby brother and now and then going to the spot where little Theresa lay cold in death. Fannie fell asleep several times in the thicket, but "little Freddie couldn't sleep because of the bullet hole in his stomach," she explained. The child's testimony and her identification of Rizzo as the murderer was not shaken in the least by the prisoner's counsel.

The habitual consumption of more food than is necessary for these purposes is the prime cause of stomach troubles, rheumatism and disorders of the kidneys. Bloody Scene Enacted at a Dance at Hammond.

TOUGHS INVADE DANCE HALL

In the Resultant Scrimmage John Potoski was Slain and James Kries, His Brother-in-Law, and John Kulczyk, a Policeman, Were Fatally Hurt, While Six Others Received Minor Injuries—A Select Affair in Polish Circles Was Interrupted by Town Rowdies, and When Police Arrived a Riot Ensued.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 20.—One man was killed, two fatally injured and six were more or less seriously hurt in a riot following a wedding party at West Hammond.

John Potoski, aged twenty-four, was shot through the heart and killed; James Kries, his brother-in-law, aged twenty-six, was shot through the breast and is dying at St. Margaret's hospital; the head of John Kulczyk of the West Hammond police was split open and he is dying at his home. Another policeman was also struck in the head. A complete list of the injured has not yet been obtained by the police. A Polish couple just married gave a party to friends at a dance hall. It was a select affair and a crowd of village rowdies, angered because they were not invited, tried to break up the party. Police aid was sought and a gang of young toughs threw Kulczyk out of the hall before he could draw his gun. The toughs followed into the street and he shot two as he lay on the ground with his head fractured. Eight arrests were made.

WHY JUDGE!

Candidate Gaynor Says He Didn't Know Where Tammany Hall Was.

New York, Oct. 20.—William J. Gaynor told a crowded ratification meeting at Tammany Hall last night that he had not known before where Tammany Hall was and that he had been obliged to telephone from his house early to find out how to get there. It was a poser for the crowd, but after a little hesitation there was a somewhat timid attempt to take it as an ex-judicial joke. The crowd was flabbergasted again later when the former jurist and candidate for mayor threw their applause back into their faces. He told them that he had been accustomed for sixteen years to address only forums and that their applause was to him only so much consumption of time; still, if it pleased them, he said, he did not especially mind it. He got silence quicker than he ever got it in court.

It was the typical Tammany ratification meeting, only minus some of the enthusiasm which is the usual accompaniment of these meetings.

"And so this is Tammany Hall," said Judge Gaynor, looking about as though gazing for the first time upon paradise—and just slightly glancing upward.

Said the judge, with the same straight face: "It's the first time I was here. Strange as it may seem to you, for you doubtless think yourselves important here in Manhattan, I did not even know where it was."

The judge pursued himself soberly with the statement: "I had to telephone from my house to find out how to get here." The judge continued: "And is it Tammany Hall? Well, if it be, where is the tiger?"

"Ma-lou-ow-ow," came from the gallery, and got a laugh that the speaker had failed to evoke.

Bejeweled Skeleton of Young Woman Found in Long Island Woods.

New York, Oct. 20.—The case of a young woman whose bejeweled skeleton was found in the woods along the Brentwood road is being looked into by the authorities of Suffolk county, Long Island. The discovery of the skeleton was made by children, whose father notified Coroner Savage.

About the throat of the victim hung a necklace of gold, with a heart-shaped locket set with a diamond. A picture had been removed from the locket. There was also a pendant pearl about three-quarters of an inch long hanging from the necklace. On the left wrist was a gold bracelet, with another pearl of similar shape attached to it.

The broadcloth skirt and coat had been partly consumed by the forest fires which swept the woods in May and June. The body had lain in the same spot probably for a year.

A large automobile veil of silk, found a few yards from the spot, bore in embroidered letters the name "Schwartz," leading to a quietly expressed opinion that the dead girl might eventually be identified as the missing fiancée of Gustave Schwartz, now in the Riverhead (L. I.) jail under indictment.

May Smith was the name of the nurse in the Central Islip hospital for the insane to whom Schwartz was reported to be engaged, and who disappeared so mysteriously about a year ago. She was never traced. It was reported that Schwartz had given her jewelry to the value of several hundred dollars.

Juvenile Love of the Morbid.

An observer of child life says that not only among the poorer classes, but in every rank, children have a curious love of the morbid. Their dolls are always ill and have operations. The death of a pet, however beloved, brings with it the deep and solemn joy of a funeral. Workers for the Children's Happy Evenings' association of London have found that the children among whom they labor occupy themselves in playing at domestic brawls and funerals and have tried to lead them into more cheerful and healthful amusements. Many of the children, they say, have to be taught how to play just as they would be taught geography or arithmetic.

Ostriches and Men.

Curious is the account of the camps or little kingdoms that the ostriches mark out for themselves with invisible but never to be encroached upon boundaries. Inside that camp it will bear no intrusion, but outside it in the domain of its neighbor it is profoundly indifferent to the stranger's wanderings. Nor is it safe for the farmer to presume upon his former acquaintance with any bird, for the ostrich has not wit enough to distinguish an old friend from a new intruder nor sufficient respect for his owner to exempt him from his suspicious hostilities, though it would appear that, as a rule, he will manifest a stronger aversion to the Kafir or Hotentot than to a white man.—London Spectator.

COULDN'T WORK THE OLD GAME

Daylight Bank Robbers Had to Run for It.

CASHIER HAD A GUN HANDY

When Two Young Men Appeared at the Cashier's Window of the Bank at West Manchester With a Demand For All the Money in Sight, Cashier Leas Pulled a Gun and They Skee-daddled—There is a Suspicion That the Amateurs Were Richmond Youths.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 21.—Quick action and sheer nerve on the part of J. W. Leas, cashier of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank at West Manchester, O., sixteen miles east of Richmond, prevented two youthful desperadoes from carrying out a daring attempt at robbery. While Cashier Leas and a young woman bookkeeper were preparing to close up the day's business two young men walked into the bank. One of them carried a basket which he placed on the floor. The other young man advanced to the cashier's window and presented a dollar bill which he asked to be changed. As Cashier Leas took the proffered bill the man at the window poked a revolver into his face and demanded all the cash exposed on the cashier's table. Instead of complying Leas took a revolver from his drawer at the side of the window, whereupon the robber fired point blank at Leas, but missed.

Both robbers rushed from the bank, and Leas fired three times at them as they went into the street, but failed to hit either. Great excitement prevailed and a hundred men were soon chasing the fleeing robbers. For five miles the chase continued, but the robbers eluded their pursuers and escaped, though they were seen several times. The officers believe the robbers were amateurs and may be Richmond men. Both are about twenty-three years old. Good descriptions were furnished, and an effort is being made to capture the men. The basket which one of the men left in the bank contained a coil of rope and several handkerchiefs. The supposition is the men believed they would be able to overpower the cashier and assistant and bind and gag them while they looted the bank.

EVADED ARREST

When Policeman Called Anderson Man Took His Own Life.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 21.—Frightened because he thought he was about to be arrested on a charge of fraudulently drawing $61 from the Citizens' bank of this city, and while a patrolman was waiting at his door, Clyde Schafer, eighteen years old, shot and instantly killed himself at his home. Schafer's young wife was standing at the door talking to Patrolman Bowman, and hearing a shot fired, hurried to the pantry, where the dead body lay.

Some time ago Schafer had an account at the bank, but had overdrawn it, and the officials of the bank reported to the police that Schafer had written a check for $61. The officers went to the Schafer home to take him to police headquarters, where he was to be questioned in regard to the matter. Schafer was married about a year ago and was employed in one of the shops here.

LAWYER IN TROUBLE

Bar Association at Indianapolis Seeks Rutherford's Disbarment.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—Continuing its policy of taking action against attorneys alleged to be unworthy to practice in the Marion county courts, the Indianapolis Bar association, through a committee, has brought disbarment proceedings against James S. Rutherford. The bar association committee filed charges that Rutherford had persuaded witnesses in court cases to testify falsely. Rutherford said he would call for a jury trial. He denied the charges against him, and said he was already prepared to introduce testimony showing he is innocent.

FRENCH CAMPAIGN AGAINST WADAIAIS

Last of the Irreconcilables Overcome.

London, Oct. 21.—Word has just come of the conquest of Wadai, the last stronghold of the Mohammedan fanatics in the central Sudan, by a small French force. The information was from Dr. Kumm, secretary of the Sudan United Mission, who left England in October, 1908, to visit the mission stations in northern Nigeria. Dr. Kumm, writing under date of Fort Archambault, on the upper Shari river, July 6, tells how the irreconcilable remnants of the various Moslem forces congregated in Wadai, which is of about the same area as Italy, under Sheikh Senussi, who had imported great numbers of Winchester rifles and other modern firearms and some cannon.

No white man except Dr. Nachtigal, a German, in 1882, ever crossed Wadai, all other explorers having been killed or barely escaped the fanatical inhabitants. It was against the population of slave raiders that a French force consisting of a handful of European officers and a few audacious and dangerously well-trained Senegalese troops operated.

A party of 800 with their officers beat 3,000 of the Wadaiahs at Dogotis in April, 1908. Three months later 500 with their officers utterly routed the Wadaiah army of 8,000 men, whose general, Agid Mamid, was killed with two sons of the sultan of Wadai and 1,300 men. The French lost forty-nine killed. In December the French nearly met with disaster. They were badly beaten at Aingalagal, and lost all their transports. If the Arabs had pursued them it is likely that none of the French would have escaped. Six months of peace followed.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of these experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

Death Traps In the Rockies.

In some of the high plateaus, or mesas, of the Rocky mountains, says a writer in the August World Wide Magazine, there are to be found a short distance from the edge cracks or fissures not more than four feet wide and often as much as eighty feet deep. During the terrific blizzards that rage in the winter these crevices are filled to the level, and cattle and horses which are not acquainted with the country frequently drop into them, their struggles only causing them to sink deeper and deeper. The cracks, into which the sun never penetrates, are like refrigerators, and the hapless brutes, when death has come to their relief, simply dry up and become to all intents and purposes mummies.

Where the Fault Lay.

"Tommy, that is the last helping of plum pudding I shall give you!" So spoke Tommy's mother, Tommy grunted. Why? Because he was a little hog.

"Once upon a time, Tommy," continued his mother, "there was a little boy who kept on eating more and more plum pudding till he burst! He died, Tommy, from eating too much plum pudding."

Tommy finished his helping. "Ain't such a thing as too much plum pudding?" he murmured tightly.

"Well, then," said his mother, "why did the little boy burst?"

"Not enough boy," remarked Tommy and pushed his plate over again.—London Scraps.

What Tommy Knew.

An inspector was examining some boys in a London school and asked one of them to parse this sentence:

"Hark, how the lark sings!"

When he reached the noun the inspector stopped him and said:

"You're wrong, Tommy. You said 'masculine gender.'"

"Yes, sir," replied Tommy.

"Well, it is not," returned the inspector. "I thought you would have known that 'lark' was common gender."

"Common gender!" said Tommy contemptuously. "That shows you know nothin' about birds, sir. Why, it's only the male bird wot sings!"—Windsor Magazine.

JEFF AND JOHNSON ARE UP AGAINST IT

The Time for That Promised
Mill to Materialize.

New York, Oct. 21.—Public opinion seems to be divided as to the plans of James J. Jeffries, who arrived from Europe on the Lusitania today, regarding the coming mill with Jack Johnson, the black champion. Sam Berger, Jeff's manager, has given out the usual long-winded statement to the effect that Jeff would surely fight and would also knock Johnson's block off. Berger declared that Johnson's victory over Ketchel did not mean much, inasmuch as it was an outrage to allow the little white man to go to certain defeat. He also laughed at the story that Jeff would never fight again, and said that as soon as the boilermaker stepped ashore he would convince everybody that he intended to take Johnson on at the earliest possible moment.

If Jeffries is anxious to put an end to the doubting Thomases who have been discrediting his promises for months, he will reach an agreement with Johnson without haggling. Jeff has $5,000 in cash posted in this city, and he will probably call Johnson's attention to it. Fair-minded sporting men who are eager to see the big battle arranged say that if the pugilists are sincere they can get together under an agreement of this kind: A contest of forty-five rounds of three minutes each, with four-ounce gloves, for the largest purse offered, with a side bet of $10,000 to be posted in full as a forfeit for appearance, the date to be not more than three months after signing articles.

If Jeffries and Johnson affix their signatures to such an agreement and post forfeits, there will be numerous offers for the mill, but there is only one place in this country where it can be pulled off without interference and where enough money can be taken in to cover the amount of the purse and expenses. California is the logical battle ground, and James Coffroth of Colma, a responsible man, stands ready to hang up a $50,000 purse. A forty-five round bout is legal in that state, and Coffroth owns the best-appointed arena for the contest. Johnson says he is ready to clinch the match so that if the men are sincere there should be no further delay.

THREE WERE SLAIN

Kansas Robbers Do Bloody Work at Lonely Farmhouse.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21.—When Rose McMahn, twenty-seven years old, did not return from the home of her married sister, Mrs. Margaret Van Royer, four miles west of Kansas City, Kan., with whom she had been visiting, the parents started a search. In the kitchen of the Van Royer home both women were found murdered. Both had been killed by shooting. The county coroner was at once notified, and was later notified that the body of Van Royer, the husband, had been found buried under a pile of leaves. The Van Royers had recently sold the farm upon which they were living. It is supposed the triple murder was done by robbers, who sought or succeeded in getting the proceeds from the sale of the farm.

Gregory, Tex., Oct. 21.—Today President Taft visited Taft, a town of a hundred population, on his brother's ranch, and saw a steam plow in operation. Taft went Republican unanimously in the last election, and the president delivered a little speech to the assembled villagers.

MRS. PANKHURST GOT A MEAGER RECEPTION

American Women Keep Cool Over
Suffragist Movement.

New York, Oct. 21.—No flag-draped tug went down the bay to meet Mrs. Pankhurst on her arrival on the liner Oceanic. Nor did any brass band play "Hail to the Chief" when the ship docked. There was, of course, some cheering, but it all came from the throats of about twenty suffragettes.

Ever so many more had planned to go down to welcome the English leader, but the customs officials were mean enough to limit the number of passes for the pier. Those present did the best they could in the way of shouting and waving green, white and purple banners, but they all looked as if they realized that it was a pretty small demonstration to put up for a woman who is accustomed to calling 20,000 persons of both sexes for a parade by merely pressing a button or two in that famous desk in Clements Inn.

MRS. HUBBARD KILLED

The collision occurred at 6:05 o'clock, and Mrs. Hubbard died at the Garfield hospital at 8:30.

Mrs. Hubbard was eighty-four years old. She was the mother of Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell, wife of the noted inventor, and Mrs. Charles J. Bell, wife of his brother, a prominent Washington banker.

PIRATES SEEK TO BOARD SHIP

Bold Buccaneers Repulsed Off the Bahamas.

JUST LIKE GOOD OLD DAYS

In This Case, However, the Crew of the "Low Rakish Craft" Did Not Push Their Advantage and Were Prevented From Boarding Without the Necessity of Spilling Blood—Captain Phelan of the British Steamer Rowanmore Brings Strange Story Into Port of Galveston.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 19.—To Collector of the Port Lee has been reported what the officers and crew of the British steamer Rowanmore, Captain Phelan, believe to have been an attempt to board the steamship by a piratical crew.

Lee has wired the department at Washington a detailed report. It is urged that the government dispatch cutters or other armed vessels to the Bahama Islands in quest of the strange bark playing in that part of the Atlantic. According to the captain's report the Rowanmore, bound from Liverpool to Galveston, encountered the strange schooner about dusk on the evening of Oct. 6, about sixteen miles northeast of Cayfort shoal light, to the east of Florida. The schooner was flying the distress signal, the Greek flag at half mast, and when the British ship came alongside four men on the deck of the rakish craft attempted to board the vessel. Captain Phelan stopped them and demanded to know what was wanted. The captain of the schooner said they wanted to leave their schooner, which was disabled, but the captain of the Rowanmore could see the schooner was in good condition. The leader of the schooner, the name of which could not be made out, then said he was short of food for ten men and Captain Phelan offered to send food without having any of the schooner's crew come aboard.

About this time other heads then appeared above the cabin of the schooner, and in the dim light the schooner swung around aft of the ship and three men from the strange craft, whose name was thus revealed to be the Lion Face, attempted to climb the anchor chains of the steamship. The crew of the vessel was summoned and Captain Phelan and officers, armed with guns, threatened to shoot the first man that came close. The yawl, in which were the three, put back to the schooner. The commander of the Lion Face swore fiercely at his own crew for their failure and at the British vessel as the schooner ran to cover among the small islands. It is said several other ships have recently reported strange schooners approaching vessels off the Bahamas, but this is the first real attempt made to board a steamer.

COST OF EDUCATING A CHILD IN INDIANA

Board of Education Presents Interesting Figures.

Indianapolis, Oct. 20.—Figures prepared in the office of the state superintendent of public instruction relative to the per capita cost of education in the common and high schools in the state have disclosed the fact that during the school year of 1907-1908 the per capita cost in all such schools, based on the actual enumeration, the basis of which the state school fund of approximately $4.50 a pupil is distributed, was $17.49.

Based on the actual enrollment, the cost was $25.26, while based on the actual attendance, it was $31.70. The figures given above are much higher than if the common schools alone were considered, since the per capita in this class of schools runs from $25 in the smaller cities to $65 in the Manual Training high school in this city. No figures were made relative to the per capita in the common schools alone.

The governor's purpose in seeking the per capita in the common and high schools was to ascertain the difference between the cost of a pupil in these schools and the cost in the three state institutions of higher education, which, in the conference, was reported as follows: Indiana university, $162; Purdue university, $159.20; state normal school, $107. The three state schools had an enrollment of 5,604 in 1907-1908, while the enrollment in the common and high schools of the state was 531,731.

The Czar Going to Italy. Odessa, Oct. 20.—The czar embarked on the imperial yacht Standart at Livadia and sailed enroute to Italy. He will not spend any time in Odessa, but will take a train as soon as he lands. It is understood that he is to travel by way of Warsaw, Posen, Frankfurt-on-the-Main and Besancon. He will enter Italy at Modena.

ALTERS HIS PLANS

Cook's Course Absolves Peary From Vow of Reticence.

New York, Oct. 19.—It is strongly intimated that Commander Peary will soon reconsider the resolve he made upon his return to civilization not to appear in public until after the controversy between Dr. Cook and himself should be settled. He finds, so a close friend and advisor of his said today, that adherence to his original intention has thrown him directly under the dictation of Dr. Cook, who has postponed the submission of his polar data until next summer, and by so doing has postponed until that date the settlement of the question that Peary urges upon the immediate attention of a scientific board of referees.

It is probable that Commander Peary will soon take the position that his submission of records and observations made on his dash to the pole to the board of managers of the National Geographical Society in Washington, being the only course left open to him by Cook's delay, will absolve him from further adherence to his determination of reticence, and he will place his papers in the hands of the Geographical society's managers probably tomorrow. Probably the first semi-public appearance that Peary will make will be as the guest of the Peary Arctic club at a club dinner, tendered in his honor.

PITTSBURGERS WILD OVER THEIR VICTORY

No Baseball Team Ever Received Such An Ovation.

Pittsburg, Oct. 19.—Figuratively speaking, the yells of joy which went up from Pittsburg last night could be heard as far as Detroit.

The Pirate crew which had taken the measure of the Tigers was given an ovation such as no other baseball team had ever been accorded. The whole town and surrounding country turned out to do them honor with a parade, which wound up at Forbes Field, where the checks were presented to the players by Congressman J. F. Burke. It was a nondescript mob which followed the twelve bands and the hundreds of autos carrying the players and city officials. Mayor Magee, who had ordered the celebration, appointed his department chiefs division marshals, and south side, north side and the surrounding hills sent forth their mobs of rooters, who massed behind the bands in solid phalanx. Three military organizations lent color to the procession, and a half dozen political clubs with banners formed in line. The streets were jammed with people and the noise was worse than a battle. The largest crowd had gathered at Forbes Field, where standing room was a premium. In the center of the diamond a stage had been erected. When the procession reached the park the crowd sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee." Mayor Magee attempted to call the meeting to order, but he might as well have ordered the Red sea to turn back.

Congressman Burke made an address felicitating the players for winning the pennant and the championship series. He called each player to the stage and introduced them to the mob, making a brief address on the prowess of each one, and handing each man a check for his share of the winnings of the championship series. "Babe" Adams, thrice winner over the Detroit, was called on for a speech, but the young man was overcome and tears trickled down his cheeks.

WHY SALVES FAIL

TO CURE EXZEMA.

They Clog The Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing exzema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it was found that these salves only clog the pores and can not penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the exzema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the only standard liquid exzema cure, oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription. After ten years of cure after cure, the world's leading skin specialists have accepted this as the true exzema cure.

We ourselves do not hesitate to recommend D. D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle, but for the benefit of those who have never tried the prescription, we arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special large trial bottle at 25 cents on a special offer now. The first bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and, at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once. Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

CHRISTMAS WORK.

For the Early Birds Who Begin Work Soon.

DESIGNS SENT FROM PARIS.

Many Varieties in Work Bags and Baskets—Trays and Picture Frames Covered With Decorated Silks and Satins—New Embroidery Case.

It is never too late to mend or too early to begin making Christmas presents. Illustrated you will find a new embroidery silk case that will be appreciated by all needlewomen. The cover of this is composed of a piece of art linen twenty-two and a half inches by thirteen inches, with the hem folded about seven-eighths of an inch wide all round and pressed with a hot iron. The outside and inside are then featherstitched, but the hem is not stitched until the case is put in the cover. The case is made of two pieces of white cotton duck. One is cut seventeen inches long by nine and one-half inches wide, and the other is nine and three-fourths inches long by nine and one-half inches wide. Cut ten strips of white cotton tape seven-eighths of an inch wide and seventeen strips one-half inch wide to weave on this piece of duck. Bind the sides with tape. Place on the larger piece, middle to middle, and stitch them together.

The folding leaves are a part of the larger piece of duck. They are eight and three-fourths inches by three and one-fourth inches. One side has tape interwoven as described, three strips of the wide and fifteen of the narrow. The other side has three leaves of flannel notched for needles. Bind with narrow tape, place in the cover and stitch all round down the middle to the cover. A conventional design is embroidered on the outside of the cover, and the word "Silks" is worked on the outside. In families where card playing is a favorite amusement it often happens that when the game is suggested in the evening a great search has to be made for the pack of cards. The card holder seen in the cut if owned by such a family would obviate the trouble on the principle of a place for everything and everything in its place. It is merely an ordinary bag of silk or art fabric arranged with two pieces of cardboard the depth of the cards tacked back and front, as it were, of the receptacle. This support makes it easier to gather up the cards than when they are tossed in a floppy bag. To designate the holder for its purpose a playing card is embroidered on one or both sides, and the word "Cards" in fancy lettering is conspicuously displayed. The holder is drawn up with gold cord.

A novelty that is distinctly Parisian is the fashioning of all kinds of bags, trays, workbaskets, photograph frames, etc., of silks and handsome fabrics ornamented with sequins and tiny ribbon flowers. Spangled net is often mounted over silk or satin and further decorated with gold or silver lace. Toilet sets are, too, covered with brocade finished with fancy gumpes and are most effective on a dainty dressing table. The fabrics are attached to the pieces by means of a well distributed surface of photographer's paste.

ROCKY BOY HEAP HUNGRY AGAIN

Senator Beveridge's Old Friend
Again Insistent.

THE ANNUAL CRY FOR FOOD

Word Has Reached the Indian Office That Band of Chippewas in Montana Threaten Trouble Because Their Belts Are Too Loose—Which Recalls the Interesting Incident of the Organization of the Washington Society For the Relief of Rocky Boy, of Which Senator Beveridge is the Acknowledged Big Chief.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Rocky Boy and his band of Chippewa Indians, after a long absence from the limelight, have come into public notice again. Word has just come to the Indian office that Rocky Boy and his followers were suffering from hunger out in Montana and that they might be driven to commit depredations in order to get food. This news was received from the Indian allotting agent at Glasgow, Mont. His message was sent to the war department, which immediately telegraphed orders to the commanding officer of the troops at Fort Harrison, Mont., to send plenty of supplies to Rocky Boy posthaste.

Years ago, when Senator Albert J. Beveridge was new to the senate, his attention was attracted to a bill on the calendar which provided for the relief of Rocky Boy's band of native born, wandering American Indians. The suggestion of romance in the title led the Indiana statesman to institute an investigation. He found that Rocky Boy and his hundred or more adherents were in the habit of leaving the reservation on long hunts, and that when an allotment of Chippewa lands was made Rocky Boy and his braves were not present to substantiate their claims to a share in the division. So the lands which the Rocky Boys might have possessed was handed over to their fellow tribesmen.

When Rocky Boy got back to the reservation and found out what had happened he and his followers indulged in war dances and then took counsel which resulted in the introduction of the bill to restore their property rights to them. Whoever introduced the bill in congress must have forgotten about it. At any rate, it was in a way of dying a natural death when Beveridge discovered its existence. He urged its passage, but was unsuccessful. After that he became sponsor for Rocky Boy and his braves, and at the beginning of each congress reintroduced the bill for their relief. It is a regular thing on calendar days in the senate for the senior senator from Indiana to recommend that justice be done to Rocky Boy. Senator Beveridge's humanitarian efforts attracted attention in Washington. As an outcome of this attention Mr. Beveridge gave a dinner in honor of his sympathetic friends, and along about the time coffee was served a new Rocky Boy's band of native born wandering American Indians was formed. Senator Beveridge was given title of "Rocky Boy," and by that name he is known to the members of the organization. Among those in the band are George Ade and Samuel G. Blythe, the writers, and John T. McCutcheon, the cartoonist, who are known respectively as "Heap Wampum," "Jumping Buffalo" and "Man-Who-Talks-With-Chalk."

At the dinner given by Senator Beveridge at which the Washington organization of Rocky Boy's band was perfected, it was suggested that the members should each give a dinner in turn. However, Senator Beveridge's was the only dinner which the organization has enjoyed as a body.

Members of the Washington band have telegraphed Senator Beveridge suggesting that he go to Montana and give a dinner to the real Rocky Boy and his red skinned companions.

PROTECTING THEIR PATENT

The Wright Brothers Charge Another Aviator With Infringement.

New York, Oct. 21.—The Wright brothers have applied to the United States district court for an injunction to prevent Ralph Saulnier, the aviator, from using a type of flying machine that the brothers think infringes upon their patent. Saulnier, who made a number of successful ascents in France, brought to this country not long ago a biplane that the Wrights contend is modeled after their own invention. They ask the court to stop Saulnier from using or exhibiting the machine.

PEARY SUBMITS POLAR RECORDS

National Geographic Society to Pass On Same.

COPENHAGEN HOLDS DR. COOK

Request Made by American Scientists Upon the Danish University to Release Dr. Cook From His Promise Binding Him to Submit His Records First to That Institution Has Been Courteously Declined—American Geographic Society Now Has Commander Peary's Data on Hand.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Chairman of the United States Geographic Board Henry Gannett and Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, formerly superintendent of the naval observatory, and O. H. Tittman, superintendent of the United States coast and geodetic survey, will compose the membership of the committee of the National Geographic society which will pass on the records and proofs submitted by Robert E. Peary to substantiate his claim that he reached the north pole on April 6.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the National Geographic society the records and observations furnished by Commander Peary were presented and Mr. Gannett, who had previously been appointed chairman of the committee of polar research, named Admiral Chester and Mr. Tittman as the other members to determine Commander Peary's claims.

It was the desire of the National Geographic society, of which Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau, is president, that Dr. Frederick A. Cook and Commander Peary should submit their records and proofs to the society simultaneously. Request that this be done was sent by the society to Commander Peary and Dr. Cook. Dr. Cook left it to the determination of the University of Copenhagen whether his data should be passed on exclusively by the university or should be presented also to a board of experts in the United States. The National Geographic society has received this cable message from Rector Torp of the Copenhagen university in response to the society's request that the university waive its claim to an original examination of Dr. Cook's records:

"University regrets not able comply with your request."

In view of this attitude of the University of Copenhagen, the only question to be determined by the committee of the National Geographic society is whether Commander Peary reached the pole in April of this year.

STICKS TO PROMISE

Dr. Cook Is Faithful to His Good Friends in Copenhagen.

Toledo, O., Oct. 21.—When informed of the announcement of the Copenhagen university in refusing to waive its claims to review his north pole records before any other scientific society had seen them, Dr. F. A. Cook said: "I could not think of asking the University of Copenhagen to waive its claim to examine the records of my trip to the pole. I had given my promise to submit all my proofs to the Danish school of learning, and it would be a breach of faith on my part not to do so now."

"It will make no difference to the scientific world whether the University of Copenhagen or the National Geographic society first sees the records of my exploration. They will be open to the world as soon as the university gets through with them, and the National Geographic society may examine them if the members desire. Any geographical society in the country will have the same privilege."

"My lecture course will be concluded at Minneapolis on Monday night, after which I will go east to prepare the records. I think the proofs will be ready in two months and possibly in half that time. They will consist of astronomical, meteorological and geographical data. The instruments with which I made observations are still at Etah and will not be in America until next year."

DAMAGES DEMANDED

Sequel to a Secret Service Incident at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 21.—Because he was imprisoned during President Taft's visit here, John Murray of Chicago has filed suit for $25,000 damages against John E. Wilkie, chief of the United States secret service; Joe Priest, local detective, and Fred H. Lancaster, deputy United States marshal. Murray alleges he was jailed on a false charge. He is secretary of the Political Refuge and Defense League and was arrested on a charge of violating the neutrality laws. He was released later for lack of evidence.

"Salted" a Diamond Mine.
Berlin, Oct. 21.—A dispatch from Windhoek, Cape Colony, says it is officially stated that part of the diamonds alleged to have been found at Conception bay were actually smuggled into Southwest Africa. A big swindling scheme is suspected.

THE WINTER MENU.

Add These Recipes to Your Collection of "Favorites."

A pretty garnish for a consommé is the white of hard boiled eggs and sweet red peppers cut into small balls or some other shape.

A favorite dessert in a certain household is the following coffee and pineapple cream: Prepare a pineapple jelly. Decorate the bottom of a mold with almonds and candied pineapples or cherries. Arrange the almonds in circles to simulate the petals of a daisy. In the center of each daisy place a cherry or bit of pineapple. Pour enough of the jelly, before it hardens, over the flower barely to cover it—no more or the decoration will begin to float. Place on ice and let it stand until the jelly sets and the decoration is firmly imbedded in it. Then mask the sides of the mold with more of the jelly and fill with a coffee Bavarian cream. If preferred, the cream and the jelly may be arranged in two layers.

A decorative suggestion for a potato salad is to soak hard boiled eggs, after shelling, in beet juice until they are a deep pink or red. Then slice them and add to a potato salad placed upon a bed of lettuce. The salad is particularly pretty if the lettuce is the russet kind with tints of red in it.

An attractive dessert is a pyramid of various preserved fruits. Place this in the center of a dessert platter and decorate with a border of lady fingers alternated with rosettes of whipped cream. Drain all superfluous juice from the fruit. Two or three preserved pears, as many peaches and plums, a few spoonfuls of berries and cherries make a good combination. The whipped cream may be flavored with maraschino.

Instead of using fresh fruits in a fruit jelly try preserved fruit for variety's sake, with a champagne jelly as a foundation.
